

Evo lever protection by Bonamici Racing

Italian parts specialist Bonamici Racing's lever protectors are designed for sport and racing motorcycles, ensuring maximum safety and an extremely low drag coefficient (CX).

"Installing a lever guard can significantly improve riding safety. Intended to protect manual controls, they offer complete protection in the event of a collision, preventing the bike from overturning and falling if the front brake lever is accidentally hit while riding. These guards are used to protect all types of front brake levers.

"In recent years, it has become mandatory to install lever guards in competitive sports, but we strongly suggest doing the same for street models as well."

Bonamici says its lever guards are a "must for every serious rider" with the breaking point "designed to respond optimally in the event of an impact or a fall. The breaking point ensures that, in the case of a severe ground impact, the guard will not assume dangerous deformations, thereby preventing greater damage. This is an important technical advantage of our lever guards, designed to ensure maximum safety".

They are made in high-performance aerospace aluminium alloys and feature an aerodynamic design that minimises drag to optimise overall efficiency and have been designed in collaboration with the engineers of the GRT Yamaha SBK Team. "The objective has been to achieve a perfect blend of high technology and style. The excellence of Italian design is expressed through elegant lines and high-quality materials, ensuring that your bike not only performs at its best, but also looks extraordinary".

Features include an adjustable angle for a customised position that "optimises comfort and control, as well as better performance. Available in a selection of colours, each lever guard can be personalised with the rider's name, number, or preferred marking for a unique and recognisable product". Bonamici Racing components are 'Made in Italy' and FIM approved and used in MotoGP, WorldSBK, EWC, MotoAmerica - and even at the IOM TT - as well as in most major national championships and trophies.

"The Bonamici Racing products you see on the market are the result of relentless work, thorough studies and tireless research on the tracks. It is there, in that whirlwind of adrenaline and competition, that our technicians find inspiration and challenge to create innovative, high-performance solutions with excellent and recognisable 100% Italian design.

"We are the official partner of the BMW World Superbike Team RoKIT with champion rider Toprak Razgatlioglu. We are also a technical partner of HRC, GRT Yamaha WorldSBK, Yamaha Motocrossing WorldSBK, and Althea Racing Ducati Team in the Supersport category.
